

Dedication:

Not sure why the nature is so brutally dispossive of its' brightest assets! Not all humans are born equal and some come with a spirit that exudes fragrance and keep on moving every moment trying to make this world a better place for as many. They trespass beyond the boundaries of agenda, create discourses charting new avenues for work and extend their surplus of life to the millions in this world who strive for warmth and light. Phangisile Mtshali Manciya was (I struggle with myself as I say "was" and wish I keep on saying is , in place) an Angeline soul for us and for many in this world, as she appeared without any premonition and planning while maintaining the rout to exit in the same way – mercurial and evanescent .

Liver foundation, West Bengal owes its' very maturity to her. She came to us when we were looking for roofs above as a pea that had just germinated, way back in 2007. With divine affection, she holds our hand as we were crawling and then started walking. In those days of infancy for our organization, she was like a constant source of inspiration in all our work, encouraging us to think deeper and dream bigger and wider through the horizon. We could reach out to thousands literally as she kept on clapping in joy and ecstasy that marked her Omni charming personality. We graduated from program implementation to building institution and Phangisile was with us with all her eternally overflowing wishes.

We think it is too selfish on the part of the Mother Nature to dress her differently as she is today. She had heaps of flowers embedded within her existence and did not need any more as we offer her at the moment. Simplicity, assertion and determination are the virtues that she has infected us with ever and we promise to keep those flowing through the oceans, above the mountains and beyond the limits of human culpability as she taught us. Adieu Phangisile...
